

An Introduction

[Rough Draft]

///

In an age beyond ours in time and alternate, but parallel to ours in space, the Solar System of our Earth has given birth to a complex choice left for those humans inhabiting it. “Left” may be misleading, however, as there are more humans here and now than in our own and most of them would choose to be nowhere other than on the front lines of this matter.

Some hundreds or thousands of years in the future, these humans do not speak English. But alas, in our own time, their story will be told through this medium. It would be nearly impossible to express it any other way:

///

In an age shortly after “the Regeneration,” the Earth has been regenerated: Regenerated from its mysterious destruction those currently living in this alternate, but parallel Solar System or Order know some, but relatively speaking, little, about. What they know is that the deadliest battle across the Planets was waged, the Earth was nearly obliterated, and it was “regenerated” through the Sun’s own power.

The Sun faced a divergent fate, in the process, that caused its aging process to speed up far more rapidly than the near-total human populace could understand. Some very few probably did and still do understand why this happened and if on purpose, but their knowledge still remains hidden from the rest. In this age, the Sun will die in four or five lifetimes, and plans are underway to respond to this.

There are two macro-factions or macro-powers that steer the leading narrative on the matter. There are the Sentai and there are the Genesis. The Sentai have come mostly to be associated with mercy, honesty, and dialogue, while the Genesis have come mostly to be associated with these qualities’ opposites: the ends justify the means, and the martyrs justify the cause.

The Sentai and Genesis, as is commonplace believed, have been waging their astronomical feud since before the Regeneration. It is commonly believed that their feud came down to something akin to freedom and equality against selfishness and dominance; the will to Goodness versus the will to Power.

Not all believe their feud can be boiled down to Good versus Bad, and because of the micro-factions or micro-powers within and beyond both having to do with this, secret alliances and betrayals exist simultaneously in both. A Third power that seeks neither to balance them nor destroy them, but supersede them, however vaguely, is repeatedly gossiped about and wishfully hoped for by the many who commit no exclusive reverence toward either. More can be said of this Third power at a later occasion.

The commonplace legends continuing, it is believed the near-destruction of the Earth has somewhat to do with what has come to be colloquially called the emergence of the “Sentai Yogi” and its “Genesis Yogi”-countering. They are believed to be those who follow the lifestyles of either the Sentai or Genesis both transformed into humans with tangible powers beyond their physical shells and minds. These powers include telepathy, psychokinesis, electric fire around and through their bodies to be used at will, and general transmutation of their cells; or what we might with a snicker call “shape shifting.” They are the “supramental or Gnostic beings” as some in our own time might describe them as. They have self-consciously directed their human evolution in their own lifetimes beyond the summit of the mind so that their being operates at a higher and fuller capacity. This higher and fuller capacity allows them to control their mind, basic life-energy, and physical bodies much as a conductor of a symphony might control her or his symphony’s performance.

The Sentai and Genesis may be called religions or may be called specific biological lineages. The obscurities with regard to accurate knowledge about them overflow. We are not quite sure in this alternate, but parallel moment. May we come to know as the context unfolds.

The last bit on these mysterious macro-factions or macro-powers is their mutually shared belief in the after-life conscious interaction between their physically-deceased ancestors and their physically-living selves. They like to call it “ancestral mediation” and this ancestral mediation means to them that they can directly and indirectly harness the energy of their direct ascendants and, if powerfully willed enough, communicate with them through direct verbal and visual interaction. The belief goes that communication with those long “dead” that are not of direct ancestry to their physically-living selves is impossible; except in one case. If a dead sibling of a direct ancestor bears no children, whether this ancestor be male, female, or otherwise, then this being can be an additional source of energy and after-life communication for the beings who physically descend from his or her child-bearing siblings. In cases of rape, those of Sentai persuasion believe an ancestor, whether direct or of a non-child-bearing sibling lineage, has a choice in continuing energy or communication through a descended being. For those of Genesis persuasion, they believe an ancestor, whether direct or of a non-child-bearing sibling lineage, has no choice but to continue energy or communication through a descended being.

For now, the given knowledge of these beings, their powers, their potential powers, and their beliefs shall suffice. Further knowledge on the larger context in which they live stands appropriate to direct attention to from here.

///

In this Solar System of our Earth, in this alternate, but parallel here and now, it is worth addressing through this initial telling that Mars no longer exists. Commonplace belief tells us this is because of the same drawn-out-Event that caused the Earth to fall and rise again and the Sun to greet its fate several billions of years before humans expected. What has now replaced Mars' presence, following this aftermath, is a translucent, crystal-like orb, that some call "the Red Crib," "the Red Tomb," or the "Red Phantom," containing a black hole. Around this translucent orb, revolves a golden ring made of electric fire.

It is said that the Sentai and Genesis, or possibly even their corresponding Yogi transformatives, built this together. They built it to contain the black hole inside from engulfing the rest of our Solar Order.

The golden ring which revolves around this missing-Mars is one of a Trinity. Called the "Three Halos," another of the same material revolves around Earth's Moon and another revolves around Saturn; Saturn's former ring having been transmuted into one of this Trinity.

Much more can equally be said of the Three Halos and what they mean for our Solar Order. For now, we can focus on this missing-Mars and its context.

What happened to Mars is what the Sentai hope to do to the rapidly-dying Sun: it was purposely transformed into a black hole. However, though the Sentai, or the Sentai's dominating micro-faction, hope to apply the experimental process applied to Mars on the Sun, it is the Genesis who applied this process to Mars. Why this is the case may be unraveled as its larger context unravels with first priority.

///

Let it be known that, in this here and now, though it may take place some hundreds or thousands of years beyond our own, technology may not be as advanced in the ways that we might expect. Though in our own time electronic technologies complexify at a rapid pace and "artificial intelligence" looms in our prophetic hopes or fears, the advancing of technology's complexity in this alternate, but parallel Social Order or System we are now calling our own had itself a peculiar curve-ball.

Associated with the Regeneration, the wiping out of the initial trajectory of technology's advancing complexity happened during the battle or drawn-out-Event that nearly obliterated the Earth. With the Earth's revival came not the revival of technology's initial trajectory, but a revival of the older Mystic Technologies. Unrisen were the mechanic, metal-dominate machines or computers we so often think of in our own here and now as associated with things “technological.” Risen again were those forces of nature we may more-currently associate with concepts such as “biotechnology,” “organic” technology, or even magic and witchcraft.

The Mystic Technologies were undivorced with the emergence of the supramental or Gnostic beings we have been calling the Sentai Yogi or the Genesis Yogi. The Mystic Technologies were Mystic indeed. The Earth and our encompassing Solar Order now functioned on principles of levitation, palm-spawned electro-magnetic energy used at will, crystal-control of objects far larger than the crystals themselves, and a “natural,” “organic,” aesthetic in relation to architecture, vehicles of transportation, and the like; clothing included.

///

The last bit of telling before turning to the beginning of the concrete story-telling of this cosmic choice as it is being lived by those alive in our new time and space stands here. Those associated with the order of the Sentai want to transform the Sun into a black hole. Those associated with the order of the Genesis want to let the Sun fade away into its death. The order of the Sentai, that is, the dominating micro-faction of the Sentai, have for generations been committed to this goal. Humans have successfully made it to two habitable planets in a nearby galaxy through the Mystic Technologies, and there is more than enough room for morally-minded growth here. The Sun will die relatively soon regardless and they would choose to honor its death with the gift of letting it be transformed into a black hole so that it may birth new universes inside of it. They seek to blow it up in a way that causes its own gravity to become so heavy that it collapses within itself into this other-side “Rebirth” that they find to be of utmost beauty and care. The order of the Genesis, that is, the dominating micro-faction of the Genesis, have for equal generations been committed to letting the Sun fade away. The Sentai see life after death for the Sun, an Ultimate Rebirth for the Sun, and the Genesis see nothing awaiting the Sun in such a fate other than the same that would await it if it slowly enlarged and faded away: inanimate matter, Ultimate Death, and an almost nihilistic-nothingness.

Many who know of the corresponding Sentai and Genesis plans are a bit confused. The Sentai, known for their association with morality, beauty, and naturalness, seem better fit to take the position of the Genesis. The Genesis, likewise, seem better fit to take the position of the Sentai. Many “subordinate” micro-factions of both orders share this sentiment. But the positions have been committed to through generations before; generations leading back to the drawn-out-Event that begot a Regeneration of the Earth, a “Degeneration of the Sun,” a Red Phantom, Three Halos, a Revival of the Mystic Technologies, and an emergence of the supramental Yogis.